Andrew has a thorough knowledge of the North East property market, having practiced in the region his entire career since qualifying in 1986.

Following a spell "client side" with Grainger Trust, Andrew established the Newcastle office of a major national practice with David Johnson in 1998. In September 2006 he and David decided to branch out and set up Johnson Tucker LLP.

Andrew is the thinking man's agent and gets particular pleasure identifying opportunities and brokering complex transactions involving several parties. Whether advising on acquisition or disposal Andrew will ensure that the client achieves the desired result at the best possible price.

He uses his experience of dealing with all aspects of commercial property to make sure that there are no surprises which could cause a deal to go sour or result in missed opportunities.

He is an experienced landlord and tenant surveyor carrying out rent reviews and lease renewal work for major clients, including arbitration and expert submissions / hearings.

He also prepares valuations for all purposes including loan security purposes acting on behalf of most major banks and lending institutions.

Andrew is our residential investment expert using knowledge gained at Grainger Trust and advising clients in the social housing sector. He also possesses specialist knowledge in the motor trade and trade parks sector (for owners and occupiers) and has acted as expert witness in major planning inquiries.
